“YOUR KINDNESS AND GENEROSITY... NOT TO MENTION YOUR PERSONAL TOUCH
HAVE BEEN GREATLY APPRECIATED. I CAN TELL YOU THAT THE SCULPTURES
LOOK SUPERB IN THEIR BACKYARD SETTING.” ~BILL F.

WELCOME TO THE RANDOLPH ROSE COLLECTION

Since 1972, The Rose Family has been committed to creating the finest works of bronze art. We are conveniently located in the historic Carpet Mills Arts District (CMAD), just twenty minutes north of Manhattan in Westchester County, New York.

From a small family business, we have grown to one of the premier resources of bronze art in the country. Fashioned by the ancient art of lost-wax casting, our statues are designed to complement and enhance your environment. Displayed in homes, gardens and public spaces throughout the world, our collection of timeless and elegant art includes: Children, Animals, Classic Fountains, Plaques and Custom Sculpture – from Tabletop to Monumental.

With enthusiasm for creating the highest quality bronze sculptures and fountains, we are proud to be able to help our clients commemorate and celebrate with our passion for art to last a lifetime.

WE TAKE A PERSONAL INTEREST IN EVERY CLIENT — TURNING YOUR INSPIRATION INTO OUR CREATION.

IMAGE CONCEPT

3D RENDERING

MOLD IN PROGRESS

CAST SCULPTURE BEFORE PATINA

FINISHED PIECE

THE RUBBER MOLD: The artist creates an original sculpture out of wax or clay. The sculpture is coated with a silicone rubber molding material that makes two rubber molds. A fiberglass outer shell is added to the back of each mold so it retains its shape and rigidity during subsequent uses.

THE WAX POSITIVE: Once the molds are done, the insides are coated with layers of wax. The halves are then bound together and wax poured inside to complete the wax image being created. Once the wax has cooled, the mold is peeled away, yielding a wax image ("the wax positive") duplicating the original sculpture.

GATING: The next step, "gating", is the application of a series of tubes and funnels that allow the molten bronze to flow through to the bottom of the ceramic shell and the hot gases to escape at the same time.

CERAMIC SHELL CASTING: After the gating is completed each wax form is dipped in a liquid ceramic silica sand compound so it is completely coated inside and out.

LOST WAX: Once the ceramic shells have dried thoroughly the pieces are placed into an autoclave and the wax is melted out ("lost wax"), to be reclaimed and used again. The shells are then cured in a kiln so they will withstand the temperature of the molten bronze being poured into them.

THE POUR: Bronze ingots are melted to a temperature of approximately 2000°F and poured into the cured ceramic shells. As the sculpture cools, the ceramic shell begins to pop away from the bronze. This shell will be completely broken away.

SANDBLASTING: The casting is then sandblasted in preparation for metal finishing.

TEXTURING: Any texturing that was lost or damaged in the casting or welding process is recreated. The sculpture is then polished in preparation for application of the patina.

PATINAS: Colors, patterns and textures obtained in the patina process are achieved through a combined application of chemicals and heat, and sealed with lacquer and waxes.
